WHEELBARROW RACE PLANS LAUNCHED

3 Events This Year With Main Race To Be Dash Over 100-Yard Course

The Studebaker Wheelbarrow Race, an annual feature of the County Fair, will be held this year under the management and supervision of the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce and directly under the management of the chamber's sports and recreation, and publicity committees.

This is according to action taken at a recent meeting of the directors of the chamber, who accepted the fair board's request that the race be taken over by the chamber of commerce.

A meeting of the two committees of the chamber with representatives of the fair board was held Monday evening and it was agreed that the race this year shall be in three divisions.

The main event the Studebaker Wheelbarrow Race, will be a one-hundred yard dash with the entries pushing wheelbarrows of the pioneer type, which will be supplied by the Fair Board.

Fifteen wheelbarrows, patterned after the time which John Mohler Studebaker made for the miners of the county, have been ordered.

Two special events will also be run in connection with the race. One will be an obstacle race with wheelbarrows and the other will be a race for entries in '49er costume, provided the entries are thirty years or more old.

Awards will be made in all three events with the major prizes going to the one hundred yard principal event.

Sutter Creek Maps Fete

Festival Will Be Held August 8, 9 and 10; "Sutter's Dream," Theme

SUTTER CREEK—It is a tradition in Sutter Creek to keep alive the memory of Captain John A. Sutter, founder of Sutter Creek, Sacramento, and other early day towns. This tradition has become a feature of the Mother Lode country and is climaxed every year with a celebration, Sutter's Gold Rush and Pageant, which will be August 8 to 10.

The pageant is always the high light of the celebration and is always woven around the history of the life of John Sutter. Mrs. Gertrude V. Clark, Pageant Chairman, has announced this year's will bear the title "Sutter's Dream, A Fantasy."

The "Pageant of the Hills," as everyone knows this gigantic spectacle is produced by the John B. Rogers Producing Co. with 300 local people taking part.

This year's pageantry will go deeply into the life of Sutter, telling of his birth in Switzerland in 1803, his life in the Hawaiian Islands, his visit to Alaska, his history making activities in California, and the discovery of gold.

The pageant will be presented on Friday night, August 8th and Saturday night, August 9th, at the Radio Grounds on the Highway between Sutter Creek and Jackson.

Naturally, the three day celebration includes other such popular features as the spectacular Twilight Childrens Parade, Coaster Derby, Queen's Ball, Grand Parade of dozens of floats and marching units, and a variety of street entertainment.

Plans are under way to make Sunday Home Coming Day and Saturday City and County Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Robinson and son, Garry, worshipped at Sacramento Sunday.

George Atkinson, our former Western Union agent, has returned to Placerville to accept a position with the Placerville Motor Parts.

Glamorizing the Gas Mask

To enable gas mask wearers to look like human beings rather than ogres from Mars, Charles W. Leguillon, rubber company inventor, has patented this new style mask, worn by a model in New York. It is made of transparent plastic materials and, according to the inventor, is impervious to gas and dust. He also says the lenses won't fog.

GEN. MARSHALL STRESSES NEED FOR MAINTAINING ARMED FORCE

Immobilization Of Selectees And National Guardsmen "At This Time Might Well Involve A National Tragedy," Says Chief Of Staff

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (U.P.) — Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, warned the senate military affairs committee that immobilization of selectees and national guardsmen "at this time might well involve a national tragedy," it was disclosed today.

Marshall's warning was delivered at an executive session of the committee last Wednesday, prior to the administration decision to press for legislation to keep selectees, guardsmen and reservists in active service for the duration of the emergency.

President Roosevelt supported the army in this move, despite apprehension among a few of his congressional leaders that he may suffer a setback, especially in regard to the retention of selectees.

Marshall said that legislative restrictions against use of selectees and guardsmen outside the western hemisphere had prevented the army from sending troops to aid in the occupation of Iceland.

"It is difficult at this time to determine the exact requirements of the national interests with respect to the military personnel," he said.

"However, in view of the international situation and its rapidly increasing threat to our security, I submit, on the basis of cold logic, that the virtual disbandment of immobilization of two thirds of our trained enlisted strength and three fourths of our trained officer personnel at this time might well involve a national tragedy."

He emphasized throughout his testimony that the selective service act called for 12 months of active duty "except that whenever the congress has declared that the national interest is imperiled, such 12 month period may be extended by the President to such time as may be necessary in the interests of national defense."

"That act," Marshall said, "set up a peacetime training system whereby we would be able to train a large reserve of soldiers. Each soldier, after 12 months of active service, would be transferred to a trained reserve, unless a national emergency existed."

"In the opinion of the war department such an emergency now exists."

He said that the army planned to release some selectees, particularly those 28 years old and more, at the end of one year of service if congress authorizes an extension.

POWER FIRM TO START SMARTSVILLE PLANT IMMEDIATELY

Pacific Gas and Electric Company is immediately to begin construction of a hydro-electric power plant on the Yuba River, near Smartsville, Yuba County, according to an announcement made today by P. M. Downing, vice president and general manager. The plant, costing approximately $1,000,000, will have a capacity of 9,000 kilowatts and will deliver about 60,000,000 kilowatt hours annually. It will operate under the water head developed by the War Department's Upper Narrows dam.

The project was planned originally by the Sacramento Valley Utility Company, all stock and assets of which have been acquired by P. G. and E. The Federal Power Commission has given official notice that the license will be issued.

Judge and Mrs. Neal Chalmers of Woodland and Colonel and Mrs. A. M. Barton of Sacramento, were weekend guests of Arthur J. Kozietzke and Mrs. Alma Hobson.

REDS REPORT NAZI DRIVE IS HALTED

Counter Attacks By Soviet Forces Said To Have Stopped Or Halted Back German Force

By UNITED PRESS

Terrific Russian counter-attacks, particularly on the south and central sectors, appeared today again to have halted and at some points thrown back the German offensive against the chief Soviet fortifications.

Russian counter action was reported from Moscow and was confirmed by official Berlin reports but the German accounts claimed that Soviet tank forces were smashed in their attempted offensive.

Against the background of the massive German-Russian engagements along an 1800 mile front a new threat to peace in the far East appeared. Observers in London and the far East were convinced that Japan is about to launch a new stroke. General belief was that the blow would fall in French Indo-China but menacing hints of action against Russia in Siberia continued in Tokyo.

The German high command reverted again to its policy of virtual silence on progress of the war. It merely said that operations in the East are progressing, allowing the official DNB news agency to carry more specific details of engagements in progress.

DNB claimed that all Soviet efforts to counter-attack had failed but admitted that these attacks had been on a large scale. Izvestia's account of the central front action indicated it may have been the largest counter-attack launched by Russia since start of the war.

Wading Pool Is Lions Project

Club Acts To Press Work; Votes Financial Support For Boy Scouts And USO

Lions "took the bull by the horns" at their luncheon meeting Tuesday at Hotel Raffles and transferred $100 from the welfare fund to the wading pool fund, and ordered an immediate start on the building of the wading pool at the city playground.

The Lions will build the pool, ready for the first wave. Development of the grounds remains an open civic project.

Lion President Ben Larson announced that a donor has come forward with an offer to grade the property to prepare it for the excavation and forms for pouring the concrete. With the $100 placed in the wading pool fund, the Lions feel they have sufficient cash on hand to do the job.

The club voted also to support the Boy Scout campaign with a $25 contribution and after some discussion voted $15 to support the USO campaign.

The club had as its guest speaker, Ed. Hughes, representing the California State Fair. Mr. Hughes was presented to the club by Lion Richard Barry and showed motion pictures of scenes at last year's state fair.

SCOUT FUNDS TOTAL GROWS

Teams Of Workers Expect To Conclude Contacts During Week, Says Chairman

Preliminary reports from workers in the annual solicitation of funds for support of the Boy Scout movement indicate an encouraging response, according to John A. Raffetto, Jr., chairman for the solicitation.

"The workers all have lists of persons to contact in the solicitation," Mr. Raffetto said, "and to these people I would suggest on behalf of the workers that it will facilitate the progress of the campaign if they will endeavor to avoid the necessity of repeat calls."

"Nearly everyone understands the value of Boy Scout training to the youth of the land. Scouting is one of the world's great character building organizations and, as someone has said, Scouting is America's answer to the major world problems of today."

"I am happy to note that advance reports by workers show an appreciation of what Scouting means in the community."

The campaign opened on Tuesday of last week and Mr. Raffetto said that it is expected that the work may be concluded within a two-week period. Anyone who is not contacted by a worker and who desires to contribute in any amount to the support of the Boy Scout movement may address his contribution to John A. Raffetto, Jr., Ivy Hotel, Placerville, or may leave it at this office.

This is according to word received by the local offices of the company from the manager at Ukiah, who said that the family planned funeral services and interment at Castle Rock, Washington, on Tuesday.

It was understood that Mr. Bemis had not been well since his transfer from Placerville to Ukiah last November and that although he had not been in a hospital since that time, he had been ill and unable to work since leaving Placerville.

Friends said that his death resulted from heart complications.

His wife and one daughter constitute the immediate surviving family.

POSSE OF NEARLY 200 HEADS SEARCH FOR SACRAMENTO BOY LOST NEAR CAMP

Clarence Murphy, 5, Apparently Wandered Away Monday Morning While Mother Thought Him Peacefully At Play In Sand-Box

A posse numbering approximately two-hundred set out from Camp Sacramento Tuesday morning to begin the second day of a search for Clarence Murphy, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murphy, of Sacramento, who had been missing since Monday morning.

The youngster, a guest at the camp with his mother, had been playing in a sand box at the municipal camp and was presumed still to be there. When his mother went to get him at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning, he was gone.

She and friends sought him about the camp ground for nearly two hours before appealing to the camp management for assistance in locating him.

A day-long search Monday failed. The Monday hunt included a search of the American River near the camp, as well as hillsides in the camp vicinity. One of the last features of the Monday search came when the camp management drained the small lake in the American River, which fronts the camp.

The posse Tuesday morning included a mounted group numbering approximately twenty, under the leadership of Deputy Sheriff Bodie Martin.

In addition, approximately one hundred private citizens were helping while Lee Hill and other employees of Eldorado Forest were assisting in directing the posses in the search, contributing their intimate knowledge of the terrain.

There were hopes that one of the Folsom bloodhounds, taken to the camp Tuesday morning, might assist in trailing the boy.

According to Dewey S. Baker, superintendent of the camp, there are no precipices in the immediate vicinity of the camp over which the child might have fallen.

However, he noted that although the river in general is not deep in the camp vicinity, there are several large holes into which it is possible the boy could have tumbled. Search of these was made Monday and a thorough check of the river was a scheduled part of the Tuesday search.

The possibility that the child could have wandered to a nearby summer cabin, lost, and had been taken in by the occupants, was scouted by the searchers who declared that, surely, after so many hours, the finding of a "lost" boy would be reported—somewhere.

FARM LABOR CONFERENCE

State Employment Service Calls Meeting Seeking To Thwart Threat Of Shortage

SACRAMENTO — Representatives of agricultural interests throughout California today were invited to a conference sponsored by the California Department of Employment for discussion of a probable shortage of farm labor this year.

This announcement was made by R. G. Wagenet, director of the Department, who said the conference will be held in Sacramento July 24.

In his letter to more than forty representatives of farming interests, Wagenet said that "in view of the emergency facing the country as a whole, the Department believes special effort should be made to insure an adequate supply of qualified labor for agriculture."

While no shortages of any proportion have occurred up to the present time, he said, "it is becoming more evident that workers from agricultural districts are being drawn off into defense industries in the metropolitan areas."

Following his recent announcement that defense industries will demand approximately 100,000 persons within the next six months, Wagenet continued in his letter to the farm representatives.

"Should this movement continue as expected because of the large demands for labor the defense industries are soon to make, the careful planning for the utilization of all available sources of labor for harvesting the major crops in the immediate future will have to be undertaken."

The Department of Employment, the director said, is able to offer considerable assistance to the agricultural industry in meeting its labor needs, and during the first six months of 1941, supplied more than "twice as many" workers to growers than in a similar period for 1940.

Labor supply problems in agriculture will vary according to crop, district, and time, but nevertheless, said Wagenet, it is believed that a comprehensive discussion of the problem will be helpful to all concerned, and will "lead to constructive methods in the present situation, and possibly lay the basis for better service to agriculture in the future."

DRUIDS AND GUESTS HAVE CARD PARTY TONIGHT AS USO BENEFIT

The proceeds of a card party this evening for Druids and their guests at the home of Mrs. Nettie Leonard, will be devoted to the support of the present United Service Organizations finance campaign in El Dorado County.

This is according to an announcement by the committee in charge, which reported plans for the event were concluded at the recent regular meeting of the Druid Circle, Arch Druidess Twila Hill presided.

The meeting also started plans for a food sale to be held at an early date and appointed Norma Humphreys and Johanna Burris to serve as members of the publicity committee for the ensuing year.

The Druid Circle is planning on a membership campaign this year again and plans will be furthered at the next regular meeting, to be held Tuesday, July 22nd.

in what appeared to be the biggest sea action so far in the war. This was an attack by Russian planes and warships on a big German convoy in the Baltic. The Russians declared that 26 German transports, three destroyers and a barge loaded with tanks were sunk or set afire in the attack. It was said that no Russian losses were suffered. This was the second big Soviet attack on a German convoy.

In London there was considerable concern about a Japanese move into French Indo China, presumably with the objective of taking over the important French naval base at Camranh Bay. U. S., British and Dutch authorities are reported to have held joint discussions concerning this danger.

The Royal Air Force attacked Bremen and Hanover in what was indicated to have been one of the war's biggest attacks and Rome said British planes bombed Messina, Sicily.

RUSSIANS ACCLAIM PACT FOR FINISH FIGHT WITH NAZIS

Docks at Cherbourg were pounded MOSCOW, (U.P.)—The Soviet-British agreement on mutual defense and a fight to the finish against Germany was hailed today by Pravda, official communist party organ, as signifying "a tremendous consolidation of forces waging war against the Fascist monsters."

Resolutions and speeches of approval, and of determination to crush Fascism, have been passed by various factory and other groups, it said.

CONDEMNATION ACTION AGAINST SUTTER MILL SITE MAY BE RESTORED TO ACTIVE FILE ON COURT CALENDAR, ARTICLE INDICATES

The action to condemn the property at Coloma near the site of Sutter's Mill, scene of the 1948 gold discovery, may soon be restored to the active file in the El Dorado Superior Court.

This is indicated in an article appearing in The San Francisco Examiner last Saturday. The action, which was placed on the calendar soon after it was filed several months ago, was later taken off the calendar and it was presumed that some out-of-court settlement was a prospect.

The article in The Examiner would indicate that hopes for an out-of-court settlement have been all but abandoned. The Examiner said:

"The place of shifting gravel and flowing water where Sutter's Mill once stood—the place where James Marshall discovered gold one January morning in 1848—will become a figurative battleground shortly, for a California court."

For years the State park commission has been negotiating for the site. Two years ago condemnation proceedings were instituted. Probably within a month hearings will begin in superior court at Placerville, county seat of El Dorado County, on the condemnation attempt to make the Coloma site which figured so greatly in California history a State tended shrine.

Works Abandoned
For years after the gold rush, the placer beds of the American River near Coloma were abandoned, torn and worked over by gold seekers. In recent years a dredging company has operated near the site, taking the last of precious metal from nearby areas.

Dredgers who sought to work the site of the mill itself were seeking negotiations with the present owner—Perley Monroe, Negro janitor at the State Capitol in Sacramento—when the park commission, after failing to reach a price agreement, began the condemnation action.

"Only a stone monument, standing in the river marks the site of the mill now," Deputy Attorney General Neil Cunningham, handling the case, pointed out.

"Some excavation of the site was done at the time the monument was set up. Parts of the mill were recovered, and more remain in the river bed there."

Cunningham said that Monroe acquired the property about ten years ago. The land, it was pointed out, was so torn by gold seekers as to be virtually worthless for other purposes, after the metal was "worked out."

Urged As Park
Members of the Native Sons of the Golden West and of the Society of California Pioneers have long urged, Cunningham added, that the site be added to the State park system. Interested dredging companies have made no attempts in recent months to secure rights to the area.

Newly on B. Drury, now director of the National Park Service, began negotiations for the area when he was investigator of acquisitions for the state park commission, Cunningham recalled.

The court hearing now awaits only one or two small details in connection with the search of title to the site, which has passed through many hands and reportedly even sold for taxes once or twice since the days when its fame was a golden lodestone drawing adventurers from all the world.

Advertising revenue derived 8,249 daily and weekly newspapers reporting to the Department of Commerce totaled $539,495,000 in 1939.

The United States takes more than half the kapok produced in Netherlands Indies, according to the Department of Commerce.

MAKING AMERICA STRONG

SHIPBUILDING INDUSTRY EXPANDS TO MAKE U.S. NAVY WORLD'S GREATEST. EMPLOYMENT DOUBLED IN THREE MONTHS

SOURCE: NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS

This is one of a series of illustrated articles designed to inform the public of the progress being made by the American industry in providing the weapons for national defense. The facts presented have been gathered in surveys of leading defense industries and from other authoritative sources.

The story of ship production in the United States during the current defense program is a story of unprecedented expansion in designing, engineering, and building facilities throughout the industry from one ocean to the other. It is also a thrilling ingenuity adapting itself to modern needs at short notice, adopting new techniques, perfecting others. Tens of thousands of new workers are being trained and put to work. Both merchant and war ship construction move ahead at unbelievable speed.

This record of achievement is well reflected in the amazing increases in employment that have taken place in the industry. In November, 1940, the U. S. shipbuilding industry employed approximately 126,900 men. In the short space of three months that figure was nearly doubled—some 250,000 in February, 1941—and it has risen steadily since.

But many more thousands of men will have to be trained to meet the building program already laid down by the U. S. Navy. For example, in

May, 1940, there was a total of 77 warships (8 battle ships, 2 aircraft carriers, 8 cruisers, 40 destroyers, 19 submarines) under construction. In May, 1941, ships building totaled 361. The total breaks down as follows: 15 battleships, 12 aircraft carriers, 54 cruisers, 200 destroyers, and 80 submarines.

In order to cope with this vast construction problem, it is estimated that the shipbuilding industry will have to employ more than 500,000 workers by January, 1942.

This will mean even more employee training in the shipbuilding trades and even greater expansion of the ways, already humming 24 hours a day on the great, all-out job of making the ships that make the nation strong.

Stewart Says:

Bernard Baruch Urges Economic Warfare Against Germany Now

By CHARLES P. STEWART
 Central Press Columnist

BERNARD M. BARUCH, who managed our war industries during the last world conflict and probably knows more than anybody else in the United States as to the best system of running them in such emergencies, wants us to open up anticipatory hostilities against Germany and to begin 'em right now.

It's commercial hostilities that he advocates, however—not necessarily the military, naval or aviatorial kind.

Specifically, what he suggests is the creation of an Agency of Economic Warfare to initiate and develop whatever international bargaining policies may be essential to outmaneuver the Nazis at their own game of exclusive agreements, subsidies and bartering. Moreover, he's listened to respectfully by many prominent businessmen and folk high in the government, President Roosevelt included.

The scheme has an especial appeal to Pan-American interests, for it's into the various territories of our southern neighbors that Nazi-land is sure to direct its first and most energetic commercial drive if it completes its European conquests or arrives at a satisfactory (to itself) negotiated peace.

In fact, it already is proposed that, in connection with Bernard Baruch's plan (and maybe as its main item), an All-American Trading corporation will be vitally necessary to handle business transactions of every sort between our western hemispherical republics and also between them and the rest of the world. The argument is that it'll be to our joint advantage, that both we and the neighbors will like it and that it will be a success from the very jump.

If the program's adopted and works, as per prediction, it'll be an excellent thing to have in operation, even if Herr Hitler's licked, leaving him in no position to realize his undoubted western hemispherical ambitions.

If Hitler Wins Abroad—

And if, by chance, he should win on his own side of the Atlantic, the Pan-Americans would be economically entrenched against him in advance and he'd have an uphill fight to break into 'em commercially. But if he did become commercially formidable, established in their midst, it generally is accepted as a foregone conclusion that he'd undertake to become so politically next. Not only would that be awful for us, in the United States, but we take it that it would be worse yet for the republics south of us.

That they've no wish to be Germanized is the inference drawn by the state department from several recent news items from their direction.

Most accounts agree that the Nazis are busier than anywhere else in Argentina, under the direction of Edmund von Therman, their ambassador in Buenos Aires. It's understandable; they have a sizable colony and large investments there. They're numerous in southern Brazil also, and some time ago they became quite obstreperous, but President Vargas squelched 'em summarily and they've stayed subdued thus far. The Argentinos don't stand for much foolishness, either. During the last war, when I lived in Buenos Aires myself, the then German ambassador became troublesome, and the government decided to act. Here in the United States, Ambassador von Bersdorff, having developed into a pest, we sent him home. The Argentinos weren't as mild as that; they marooned their man on an island in the Rio de la Plata. They haven't marooned Ambassador von Therman yet, but the other day they appointed a group of congressional investigators, similar to our Dies committee, to dig into undemocratic activities in their midst.

A little later the Nazis' flag was yanked down from over their consulate, during an anti-German demonstration in Cordoba.

Next Uruguay opened its waters to Yankee and other western hemispherical warshipping in the Americas, and urged the rest of 'em to follow suit.

Such happenings don't strike me as overly pro-Nazi, despite all the propaganda talk.

CAPT. FRITZ WIEDEMANN FLIES TO NEW YORK TO CATCH BERLIN-BOUND SHIP

NEW YORK. (UP)—Expelled Axis consular representatives and propagandists sail for their homelands today on the Navy transport, West Point.

As they boarded the ship with their wives, children, pets, and confidential files, United States consular representatives were preparing to leave Germany and Italy. They had been expelled in reprisal.

The two most important of the Axis agents and a party of 14 were flying here from San Francisco in three United Airlines transport planes so that all could sail in the West Point. They are Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, who is close to Adolf Hitler, and was the German consul general in San Francisco, and Johannes Borchers, who was the German consul general here.

REICH GOVERNMENT NAMED IN INDICTMENT OF SPY SUSPECTS

NEW YORK. (UP)—A federal grand jury today named "the government of the German Reich" as a co-conspirator with 33 men and women indicted on charges of espionage against the United States.

The grand jury, in Brooklyn federal court, charged 31 of the defendants, all of whom were rounded up last month, with failure to register as agents of a foreign power and the entire 33 with transmitting United Defense information to a foreign power.

In count one of the indictment, detailing the alleged ring's espionage practices, the 33 defendants were accused of conspiring "with each other and with the government of the German Reich" to violate section 233 of title 22 of the United States code.

SELECTIVE SERVICE LOTTERY TO BE HELD ON THURSDAY EVENING

SACRAMENTO—With the segregation, assortment and shuffling of Second R Day registration cards reportedly completed at all of its 284 local boards and with but one day remaining in the current 13th induction call ending tomorrow, state today reported its current work headquarters of selective service cleared and open for the second national selective service lottery to be held in Washington, D. C., Thursday evening, July 17.

According to Brigadier General Joseph O. Donovan, state director of selective service, sequence numbers for California's young men who registered on July 1 will be integrated with those numbers held by old registrants.

In explanation of the integration procedure Donovan said that the new numbers will be integrated among the old registrants who have order numbers larger than the last selective of their local board who was involuntarily inducted before midnight, June 30, 1941.

Reports to state headquarters here from all local boards indicate chairmen throughout the state are prepared and in readiness for the turn of the lottery wheel, this Thursday evening.
